

Feedback on article “Eclipsing the Taj Mahal” published in DAWN.COM/ e-paper

The article highlights the decision taken by the BJP government to exclude Taj Mahal from its tourist site. It is a clear evidence of the twofold policy of India to spread hatred, biasness and ethical and religious intolerance and unrest under the cover of “opening its doors to the global world”. But this policy stands bogus. Such an act is going to be damaging for the tourism industry in the long run as it is a major source of attraction for people visiting India. The decision is an open defying of the global world heritage standards and belongingness of the world community towards Taj Mahal.

The decision has created unrest among masses; not only those who attach themselves with the historical legacy , specially the seven wonders of the world, but also the ones who have emotional values attached to it. The international reaction towards the decision will soon prove that India is alone in such choices. It will have to reconsider its pronouncement before taking further action.
